

TREATMENT OUTCOMES

Muir Wood Adolescent and Family Services strives for the best treatment outcomes for each client and family it serves. Because every adolescent and teen we treat has different needs, Muir Wood psychiatrists, nurses, clinicians, care coordinators, teachers, and other staff work toward positive individual outcomes by delivering excellent treatment that yields the best results in the time we have with our clients.

Muir Wood uses outcome measurement tools that meet or exceed Joint Commission standards to ensure that our treatment produces positive health outcomes for clients and achieves a high level of parent and guardian satisfaction with the Muir Wood treatment experience.

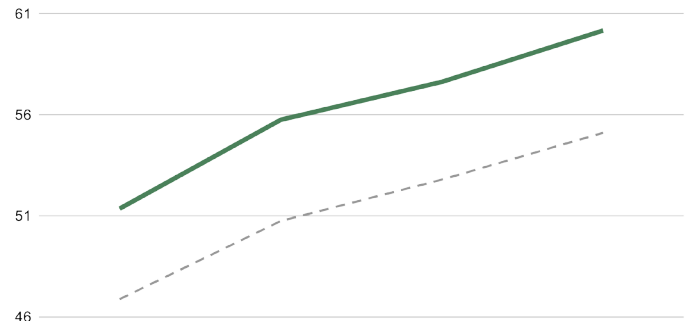

These outcome measures use 2019 – 2021 Muir Wood client data collected and analyzed by Trac9 Informatics, a behavioral healthcare outcome measurement company whose mission "is to provide gold-standard assessments and custom predictive analytics to improve the efficacy of treatment." Trac 9 assists with Joint Commission accreditation requirements under standard CTS.03.01.09 and CARF accreditation requirements under the 2018 Behavioral Health Standards – Section M.2, M.4-5. In addition, family satisfaction information uses data supplied by Muir Wood client parent and guardian post-treatment surveys.

Overall Treatment Effectiveness

Client-reported data collected by Trac9, an independent outcome measurement provider, shows that Muir Wood Adolescent and Family Services treatment results in better treatment outcomes measures compared to the national average of treatment providers. Significant differences can be seen in numerous measures that suggest clients are better able to manage their conditions, feel better about themselves, and are experiencing less severe symptoms than before receiving treatment. These outcome data represent reporting following four weeks of treatment at Muir Wood.
